1. SACRIFICE OF INDIVIDUAL INTEREST FOR THE COURSE OF REVOLUTION. . . .

Our primary task at present is to achieve the revolution by ousting the American and British imperialists and crushing the running dogs, the Syngman Rhee's party. In the course of the revolution, however, we find, among our workers, many undesirable tendencies, such as too much consideration of personal kinship, friendship, school groups, and home town ties in his works. As KIM Il-sung pointed out already, too many people strive for selfish profits. The most urgent matter today is to fight these destructive elements that interfere with the course of the revolution.

13. DEFECTS ACCOMPANYING REORGANIZATION OF ADMINISTRATIVE DISTRICTS. . . .

The reorganization of local administration system has been successfully carried out. However, we must admit many deficiencies and defects accompanying this alteration. For example, in many districts, leading workers of People's committees neglected timely measures, such as the production and distribution of living necessities and preparation for spring seeding. Moreover, many People's committees, such as in Chunghwa and Taedong, did not make fair transfer distribution of state properties and financial balances. Some officials of county or myon committee who were transferred to a lower echelon forgot that the major aim of this reorganization was to strengthen Ri committees and raise their administrative roles and thus neglected their duties.

These defects are severely criticized and should be eliminated immediately.
